why this has come to me, I don't know. Surely I'm not "a knowledgeable Desk Officer". But I do not agree with the RO's authorization for destruction - there are a number of intel connected persons clearly identified in this document. Purging the others might be warranted, but the desk should decide that. And the desk should note the intel types so that their names remain in the system.

Since MHBK was a refugee org. in Austria the intel types were only among themselves. Still see no reason to keep.

- 4. Mai 1955

On 1 April 1955, Andreas Zako, Hungarian refugee, born 23 March 1898 in Brasov, Hungary, was interviewed in Bischofshofen, Land Salzburg, Austria, through Informant 21-32 concerning the organization of Hungarian refugees residing in Western Europe into an evacuation group, to be activated in case of war, by the Hungarian Warriors Association (Magyar Harcosok Bajtarsi Közszege - MHBK). Zako, former major general (G-2) in the Hungarian Army, current leader of the MHBK, called a meeting of leading MHBK personalities on 5 February 1955, in Klagenfurt, Land Carinthia, Austria. During the meeting, the MHBK officially approved the organization of an evacuation group, composed of former members of the Hungarian Army, which would be activated in case of an outbreak of war between the Eastern and the Western Powers. Initially, the group would be concerned with the evacuation of Hungarian refugees in Austria to Western European countries, such as Germany, France and Belgium. However, it was decided during the aforementioned meeting that in addition to evacuation duties, the group would function as a tactical unit which would have the military mission of fighting a delaying action against any advancing troops from the East. After fighting such a delaying action, the unit would then infiltrate eastward into Hungary, thereby being in a position to serve the Western nations in the capacities of an armed partisan unit and a combat intelligence unit. Also, during the meeting, it was agreed that Zako would accomplish the tactical organization of such a group, to be known as the Danube Group (Duna Csopart). Temporarily, the Danube Group would be comprised of a brigade, called the Saint Laszlo Brigade, which would be concerned with the countries of Austria, Italy and Switzerland. Tentatively, two additional brigades were planned, as follows: The Hunyadi Brigade, to be stationed in Munich, Germany and comprising the area of Western Germany; and the Rakoczi Brigade, to be stationed in Brussels, Belgium and comprising the areas of Belgium, France, Holland, England and Spain. According to Zako, the latter two brigades would not be organized until such a plan is approved by the US authorities in Austria and Germany. Zako stated that as of 1 April 1955, he had organized the Danube Group, complete with staff members, whose headquarters would be located in Munich, and the Saint Laszlo Brigade, whose headquarters would be located in Klagenfurt, Land Carinthia, Austria. In addition, the Saint Laszlo Brigade had been organized into three battalions, as follows: The First Battalion, located in Klagenfurt, Austria, and comprising the areas of Lands Carinthia and Styria; the Second Battalion, located in Salzburg, Austria, and comprising the areas of Lands Salzburg and Upper Austria; and the Third Battalion, located in Innsbruck, Austria, and comprising the areas of Lands Tyrol and Vorarlberg, and Switzerland.

b. Zako stated that the planned total strength of the three battalions, mentioned above, is 362 men, exclusive of the aforementioned brigade staff section. Zako pointed out that he had purposely organized the Saint Laszlo Brigade into a unit comprising few in number, because of the fact that this Brigade, due to its location, would be the principal brigade charged with the mission to infiltrate eastward, into Hungary and possibly Rumania. The bulk of any delaying action that might be fought would be chiefly the responsibility of the second and third brigades, to be located in Munich, Germany and Brussels, Belgium, respectively. Also, the latter two brigades would be chiefly concerned with the evacuation of Hungarian refugees from Austria, in the event time permitted such an evacuation. Zako stated that in the event such an organization met with the approval of the US authorities in Austria and Germany, those authorities would be responsible for the supply of weapons, ammunition, signal equipment and explosives needed in a military action involving infiltration, guerilla warfare, sabotage and combat intelligence tactics.

c. Concerning the OB of the above mentioned units, Zako stated that every attempt was made to select leaders who have declared their intentions not to emigrate westward from Austria. Those who later change their minds and decide to emigrate will be immediately replaced by other competent leaders available. Zako stated that in the event the US authorities in Austria are interested in utilizing the services of the above mentioned organization, either in the manner described above or in a manner more suitable to the military needs of the US Army, the organization is prepared to offer its fullest cooperation.
